The miners who sought winter quarters elsewhere are fast making their appearance in and about Eldorado

Judge Alberson and Pierce Mahaffy now in Eldorado have engaged a gang of men and are employed in cleaning up their mining ditch preparatory to turning the water in

A man in Eastern Oregon bought an imported heifer for which he paid $50 down and promised to pay $50 more He now claims that the vendor had painted the animal to make her look like a regular Ayrshire and refuses to make the additional payment

The number of School Districts reporting in Marion county is 64 persons of school age, 4,414 legal tax paying voters, 2,161 number of quarters of school taught during the year 1094 whole amount of public money expended $8 270 42 per rate bills and subscription $6 364 27 value of school property in the county $22,110

The La Grande Sentinel says "The Department at Washington made a serious mistake in not appointing our Minister Adams on the Modoc Peace Commission He has proved his power over the savage by converting the only Indian who has been in attendance at his meetings here in La Grande, and he was a Snake too It occurs to us that if he can 'fetch' a Snake he could a Modoc and not half try "

The Circuit Court for Linn county, Judge Boneham presiding, convened at Albany last Monday The attendance of attorneys and litigants was quite large There were about 45 cases on the docket some of considerable importance Up to 10 A M, Wednesday five cases had been tried In the case of F J Anderson vs Bosch & Monteith action to recover the value of 95 bushels of wheat the judgment was for plaintiff In the case of the State vs N Simon, the defendant being charged with assault and battery on Dr Ralston a verdict of guilty was rendered and a fine of $400 imposed The grand jury had indicted Indian Frank for assault and J D May who was arrested in this city, for perjury The case of the State vs Levi Livingston in which the defendant was charged with counterfeiting was on trial

To work the Crane Diggings on the head of Grand Ronde river in Union county, the services of twelve or fifteen white men and fifty Chinamen have been required since about the first of November last whose wages in the aggregate amount to about $14 000 to date There has been purchased and hauled to the mines a steam saw mill at great expense, which has already cut over one hundred thousand feet of lumber for houses flumes etc Three miles of ditch have been dug seven feet wide at the top and five feet at the bottom and two and two and a half feet deep, to supply the pipes with which it is proposed to wash this immense mass of auriferous gravel The fluming required for present purposes will be not less than half a mile in extent, and during its course will drop two different times, the first being twenty and the second fifteen feet, perpendicular fall The most approved ripples (commonly called riffles), and a variety of them, will be used in the fluming for the purposes of saving the gold The first piping will be done about the first of April, and a 'clean up' made after a thirty days run The amount of money expended in the development of these mines cannot fall short (judging from our best information) of sixty thousand dollars, and a still greater amount will be required before any return can be expected We are informed by those who claim to know that, when fully developed, these works and mines will prove of greater magnitude than any of a similar nature on the coast

Reminiscence of the Turf

THE BOSTON BLOOD

Last year after Harry Bassett had met with one or two defeats, the theory was promulgated that the Boston blood in him made him sulk when hard pressed The grand chestnut son of Timoleon we were told was notorious for his sulky disposition But this statement was unjust. He was true game, and when at himself remained resolute, no matter how hard he was driven In 1840, Boston was matched against Gano four mile heats, $10 000 a side, race to be run at Augusta Georgia When he arrived at at Augusta, one of Boston's fore legs was so badly swollen that Colonel Johnson was in doubt as to whether or not he would start him But when it was learned that Gano was also complaining of a leg, all thoughts of paying forfeit were abandoned Boston had been worked regularly so outside of his leg he was in fair bodily condition The race came off December 6th, and the son of Timoleon won the first heat in a gallop after which Gano was withdrawn Ten days later a race of four mile heats was run at Augusta for a purse of $800, for which Boston was entered But on the 17th, on looking at Boston, they found that owing to neglect his leg was more fearfully swollen than ever He had had no work for several days, and consequently was out of sorts It was believed, however that he could beat Santa Anna and Omega, entered against him, and so it was decided to start him When the horses were called to the post, Col Johnson and his party became so enthusiastic in favor of the chestnut that they took all the bets they could get of one hundred to twenty five on Boston's winning Their imprudence was soon made manifest The horses went off at the word, but Boston refused to run On the finish of the first mile he was two hundred yards behind the others Gilpatrick, who rode him, felt that it was not a case where the use of the whip would do any good The horse was in no condition to run, and the lash would only confirm rebellion So the jockey sat lightly in the saddle and tried to encourage him with kind and gentle words At the end of the second mile the position was not improved, and the Georgians were wild with delight "Go it, my gallant Omega!" "Well done, my noble Santa Anna!" "Look at the duffer" were the excited phrases shouted by excited human beings When they entered upon the fourth and last mile and Boston still kept up his sulky gallop far in the rear Colonel Johnson and his party gave up all hope Nevertheless they continued to watch the race until the leading horse was at the half mile pole and, seeing that Boston was at least one hundred and thirty yards behind they turned and walked with gloomy faces towards the refreshment stand But the exclamation "The chestnut has settled down to work at last Great God! see him run!" arrested their steps Wheeling about, they were surprised to see Boston bending all his energies to the task before him So rapid was his flight that he seemed to be but a flash of light The jubilant Georgians stood in blank dismay mouths open, and the cheer for their favorite died with the palsied breath On with the rush of a living thunderbolt came the magnificent chestnut, and before the line was reached he had overhauled his competitors and won the heat Captain Rynders says it was the most marvelous burst of speed that he or the world ever saw Even the thought of it thrills him to this day The easy pace at which Boston had compassed the three miles had warmed him up and when he entered upon the fourth mile he was just beginning to feel in the mood for earnest work Gilpatrick's gentleness and soft words had acted like a charm Then he went to work as if determined to head the leading horse or die in the attempt Captain Rynders is positive that Gilpatrick never rode before or since, a half mile at such a terrific rate of speed Being warmed to his work Boston won the second heat easily, and with it the race —Turf.

THE TERRITORIES

Olympians are taking steps to enforce the Territorial game law

The amount of school fund on hand in Cowlitz county is $1 100 [illegible]

Walla Walla is about to move in the matter of securing a public library

A clothes line thief made a raid in Olympia the other night and left an editor shirtless

There are thirty three lodges of Good Templars in Montana Territory with a total membership of [illegible]

A Church Society has been organized at Walla Walla under the auspices of the Cumberland Presbyterians

Work has actually begun on the Walla Walla and Wallula Railroad, and the probabilities are that before another winter the entire trip from Portland to Walla Walla can be made by steam

It has not yet been definitely settled who will complete the unexpired contract for carrying the mails between Olympia and Victoria, and Postmaster Burr is still waiting for instructions from Washington

The Courier says that several contractors are now stopping at Tenino, examining the proposed route of the railroad previous to making bids They have everything in readiness to push the work as soon as the contract shall be awarded

On last Sunday a large pack train of mules loaded with goods, partly for Mr Covington's trading post, and partly with goods for some Chinese miners, started from Walla Walla for White Stone on the Columbia river It was accompanied by a pack train of about thirty Chinamen [illegible] trains were heavily laden and appeared [illegible] well broke to pack

A letter from Yakima City, under date of March 10th contains the following "For the past week the farmers of the Atahnum and lower Yakima valleys have been plowing A slight snow storm occurred on the day the letter was written Barker's flouring mill had closed for the season Money scarce One good thing for the taxpayers is, that the county is out of debt and will have money on hand at annual settlement "

The Helena Herald seems to think things in Montana are in a very bad way It says "A Legislative session, called for an early day, will do more toward turning the tide of emigration towards Montana than a score of new gold discoveries If it is of any consequence to keep the few people we have in the country, and of any importance to add to their number, Gov Potts will convene the Assembly, and do his part in giving to the Territory some wise and salutary laws "

The Merchants' Transportation Company on Saturday last filed, with the Secretary of Washington Territory, a certificate of incorporation, to run steamships between the several towns on Puget Sound and the city of San Francisco Capital $100,000 divided into 1,000 shares, at $100 each The trustees are Capt J S Lawson, R G O'Brien, S W Percival, B H Tuttle of Olympia John Latham, of Steilacoom, Thos G Russell, J R Robbins, T A Wright, of Seattle, and D C H Rothchild, of Port Townsend

From the Walla Walla Union Some of the Oregon papers are announcing that Mr. John Roland, of this place, is dead When we heard the announcement we called at his shop and interviewed the deceased We found him the most animated corpse we ever got acquainted with. There has been a mistake somewhere, and Mr. Roland is not going to die just in order to rectify it We do not believe that he had the item published just to see what nice obituaries would be published of him, yet we have heard of the like

The Walla Walla Union of the 22d inst, says At the present time there is more activity on the farms in the Valley than we have ever before witnessed Because of the early winter much plowing that should have been done then had to be postponed, and until within a few weeks past there has not been much weather in which farming operations could be carried on As a consequence, when spring opened, the farmers found that they had no scarcity of work ahead of them They have the good fortune to have the finest weather imaginable to which to do it, and if it continues they will in part be able to make up for what they lost last fall by a too early winter And now, every man and boy that is large enough to follow a plow is busy plowing ground and putting in grain

The Walla Walla people are proposing plans to keep the expected high water out of their town The Statesman says "The proposition is to place a gate at the intersection of Mill Creek and the Yellow Hawk, so arranged that when the water reaches a certain height the surplus will flow off through the bed of the last named stream. This improvement can be made at a trifling cost, and promising entire security, it would be well for the city authorities to inquire into the proposition, and if found practical, have the gate erected before we are visited by another freshet The banks of the creek, just above town, are rapidly washing away, and with another freshet, it is altogether possible that Mill Creek will leave its present bed and overflow all the more densely settled part of the town "

The Walla Walla Union has a private letter from what it considers a reliable source, stating that the contract for building the section of the North Pacific Railroad between Pend d'Oreille lake and the Columbia river, which says "That the contract for building this section of the road was signed on the 25th of February, and that the road over that portion of the route is to be completed within two years As the timber will have to be brought down the Yakima, Clearwater, or up the Columbia, and will have to be floated during the high water in the spring and early in the summer, it is not probable that much timber will be got on the ground this season, as there is not sufficient time between now and the time of high water in which to cut and raft it We think, therefore that there will be but little, if any, track laying this year But as there are two hundred and eight miles of road covered by this contract, it will furnish work for as large a force of hands as it will probably be possible to obtain for both this and next year It seems likely that the grading and preparation of the road bed will be as much as can be accomplished this year and that the ties and rails will not be laid until next

NEW BANK NOTES —The last Congress adopted a paragraph in the legislative appropriation bill appropriating $600 000 for the replacement of worn and mutilated bank notes, and those notes of such designs as are easily counterfeited It also provided that the national banks should reimburse the national treasury for the cost of circulating notes furnished The wording of the paragraph is rather obscure and as it was not prepared by either the Secretary of the Treasury or the Comptroller of the Currency, there is some doubt as to the instructions to be given national banks under it The $600 000 will be expended in issuing new notes as far as it will go, but as to holding national banks responsible for the cost it will not be done Comptroller Knox says there is no principle nor no form in that provision under which the banks could be assessed and if they reimburse the Government it will require extra legislation to bring it about.

SAN FRANCISCO March 26 —A few minutes before two P M Admiral Selfridge with several officers arrived in the city from Mare Island, with R D Bogart in custody He was brought before Judges Hoffman and Sawyer sitting together The District Attorney presented the return of Admiral Selfridge to the writ which was simply the telegraphic order of Secretary Robeson for Bogart's arrest for embezzlement and desertion Pixley & Harris appeared for Bogart and claimed that Selfridge held him without any legal warrant or authority, and that he is not amenable to the military or naval power The argument on the part of the respondent was quite extended It was held that Bogart having belonged to the navy could not sever his relations therewith by desertion, and he is therefore still subject to the jurisdiction of a Naval Court martial to be tried for any offence which he committed while in the navy. After argument the counsel for the prisoner withdrew the demurrer to the sufficiency of the return and moved that he be admitted to bail The Judges would not entertain this proposition and his counsel then moved that he be placed in the custody of the U S Marshal that they might be able to confer with him Lattimer insisted on this proposition also The Judges intimated that the placing Bogart in the custody of the Marshal would be virtually a decision that he is unlawfully held by Selfridge and that was the very question they were to try Pixley in support of the proposition said there had been a determination manifested throughout to prevent counsel and friends from seeing Bogart, and that the commander of the vessel which brought him from Mare Island was ever ordered not to reach the city before a few minutes to three o'clock P M and that he had been unable to consult with his client more than three minutes before the Court sat. He denounced the whole case as a conspiracy on the part of Secretary Robeson and others of the navy who were smarting under Bogart's pen. His remarks were applauded by some of the large crowd present when Sawyer checked him Lattimer objected to his remarks as indecorous and in contempt of the Court. Pixley disclaimed any intention of contempt or disrespect and the Court admonished him to adhere to the subject Lattimer said that there was no disposition to put the prisoner under unnecessary restraint, and that his friends and members of the press had been admitted to his quarters at Mare Island The Judges would not place Bogart in custody of the Marshal, but indicated that he should be permitted to go to Pixley's office in charge of the naval officers, and remain there two hours Admiral Selfridge to produce him before the Court at two P M to-morrow

It appears that one of these parties, in purchasing a pair of boots lost a pocket knife The proprietor of the store picked it up and took it to Wilkins' house Mrs Wilkins recognized it as one belonging to her husband. Other circumstantial evidence tends to implicate these men Wilkins is still in a precarious condition, and there are but little hopes of his recovery entertained.

The Baltimore courts are occupied with suits on insurance policies A citizen of Baltimore insured his life against accidents. Shortly after, by permission of the company, he visited Europe, on condition that in case he should die while engaged in any hunting or exploring expedition, the policy should be forfeited While ascending Mont Blanc he was overtaken by, and perished in a snow storm The company refuses to pay the policy, on the ground that the ascent of Mont Blanc is an exploring expedition within the meaning of the policy. In noticing this case the New York Times says

If the ascent of a mountain, which is ascended by a dozen or more tourists every year, is an exploring expedition, what trip can a man take that is not equally entitled to that imposing name? Suppose he is killed while going to Philadelphia, or is blown up on a voyage to Staten Island Cannot insurance companies claim that he was attempting to explore New Jersey, or to discover the sources of the Staten Island ague?

THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 27 1873

A Chapter for Juries

Among the signers of the petition to Governor Dix for the pardon of Foster, the murderer of Putnam were several members of the jury that convicted him They assigned as a reason for urging the Governor to pardon Foster that the verdict of conviction was a compromise among the jurors and never would have been rendered had they not supposed their recommendation to mercy accompanying the verdict would have sufficient weight to shield the defendant from the punishment prescribed by law The recommendation failed to produce the result it was intended to produce, and the consequence is that these jurors stricken too late by a conscience that slept when it should have been active begin after all other resources had been exhausted to bestir themselves to secure executive clemency for the prisoner Their efforts to save the life of a fellow-man whom they confess to having condemned to death against their own sense of right like their qualms of conscience came too late and Foster suffered the penalty which law attaches to the highest of crimes his offence was expiated on the gallows

In this case is a lesson for jurors to ponder Foster was in all probability guilty of the crime for which he was indicted and of which he was convicted but these petitioning jurors confess that they were not satisfied of that fact, when they agreed to the conviction His guilt had not been proved to their satisfaction but they, nevertheless, returned a verdict that he was guilty, because it was difficult to arrive at an agreement with the other jurors upon any other verdict; Rather than be shut up in a jury room for twenty four, or at the outside, forty eight hours these jurors consented to compromise away the life of a man whom they were bound by every instinct of humanity as well as by their oath as jurors, to regard as innocent, he not having been proved guilty These jurors may have been honest men in a general way, and their conduct may have been attributable to the want of a clear comprehension of their relation to the administration of the laws, but it requires a very human faith in the virtuous intentions of mankind, together with a large endowment of charity, to enable one to speak of such a course as anything short of down right infamy. For the disregard of their oaths and of the life of a human being which the law had placed at their disposal, they had not even the temptation of a money bribe If deliberate corruption is more criminal than this recklessness of duty, it is scarcely better adapted to excite indignation

Jurors ought to agree if possible They are as much sworn not to stand out and refuse to find a verdict on account of wild and fanciful theories that are not suggested by the evidence adduced upon the trial, as they are sworn to hear the evidence And it is perhaps not too much to say that a jury of intelligent men, sincerely desiring to arrive at the truth, hearing exactly the same evidence in exactly the same way, and forgetting everything but the evidence, will seldom fail to agree But under the most favorable circumstances agreement is not in all cases possible, and in case of honest disagreement, a juror who consents to a verdict which he does not believe from the evidence is right, is guilty, in a moral point, of the crime of perjury, and of whatever other wrong shall result from his unrighteous verdict Well might those jurors who consented to Foster's condemnation to death, believing at the same time that he was innocent, stand aghast at the consequences of their action

This chapter in the history of trial by jury is one that is not without its parallel Cases so appalling in their consequences, may be rare, but cases precisely similar in principle to this one are of common occurrence That stubborn adherence to honest convictions without which general correctness of purpose is a delusion and a sham, is quite as essential in the jury box as the judicial impartiality which can pass a fair judgment upon the rights of an individual regardless of his station or relations in society.

The proprietors of the Herald publish in yesterday's edition a card over the signature of A B. Hallock Esq, President of the publishing company, disavowing in toto the change of base by which that paper came out as a Holladay organ on Tuesday morning The disclaimer is full and complete, and places the proprietors on the same ground they formerly occupied

Mr. Chas Nowell, the young gentleman who has had editorial charge for some time past, also publishes a card avowing the authorship and assuming the responsibility of the toadying articles, and declaring them to be in accordance with his true sentiments The proprietors say they had no knowledge or intimation of the change of policy till the paper of Tuesday morning reached and surprised them Mr. Nowell's card is substantially to the same effect What will come next, we are unable to predict

The Eight Hundred Dollar man who runs the little seven by nine sheet at Salem is hugely in love with the Herald for its laudations of Mr. Holladay It says that a report which told the plain, unvarnished truth about that sublime fizzle of a reception which took place last Saturday evening at Holladay's was "currish," and that the flunkeyism of the Herald was marvelously "manly" We do not know whether the Eight Hundred Dollar transaction was regarded as "currish" or "manly" but we are quite confident the transactions in the Waldo Hills were rather swinish—if not more so What do you think about it, Captain?

Advices from Salt Lake say that English capitalists are growing solicitous with regard to their Utah investments Their concern is not so much for the intrinsic value of the mines in which they are interested, as on account of the "sharp practice" of stock operators and dealers in mining claims Utah has been dependent upon London capital for the development of her rich mineral resources and anything which tends to weaken the confidence of investors will prove of vast material injury in the end to that Territory

It is proposed to stock Great Salt Lake with salmon and shad Prof Baird undertakes this contract He proposes to furnish sufficient eggs to do this thing. It looks as though it would require the diligent labor of one whose brain is well supplied with phosphorus, and who is blessed, in addition with remarkable longevity to accomplish it

A Washington dispatch says that Frederick F Low, for four years Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to China from the United States Government has resigned It is rumored that the mission will be given to either ex Senator Nye or Cole

Our readers will call to mind an incident which was mentioned in our dispatches of March [illegible] wherein a brave little hero of eighteen years dashed into a burning house to save a lady who, he supposed, was perishing in the flames It was a noble deed such an one as should command the deepest gratitude of her in whose behalf this young life was lost and deepest emotion of all good men This young hero is dead He died from the fearful injuries received in performing his perilous duty A Nevada dispatch of March 20th furnishes the following brief particulars

Jimmy N[illegible] of [illegible] formerly a messenger boy for the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company at that place who was severely burned at the fire on the Divide two weeks ago died of his injuries A woman was thought in danger of being burned to death when young N[illegible] rushed into the burning building to save her In the thick smoke he could not find her and she managed to escape while he was looking for her The flames surrounded him and he received such injuries that his death is the result His noble conduct gained for him the admiration of our citizens

This is his brief obituary We raise our monumental shafts to the heroes of the battle field, and the niches of our Capitols are adorned with the statues and busts of men whose public services claim some recognition at our hands But what of this brave young soul that was sacrificed in the grandest of all services the holiest of all actions? Greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for his friend

It is stated that Mr Mori who has been for a number of years ambassador from the Japanese Empire to the United States, has left Washington for his native land his successor having been appointed During his residence in the United States Minister Mori has gained a reputation something more than national for the notably liberal views he has held in regard to the improvement of Japan To the enforcement of these broad views upon the authorities of Japan co-operating with the praiseworthy labors of our own Minister—Chas E DeLong—more than to any other influence, is to be attributed the wonderful regeneration of the social and political institutions of the Japanese people This faithful Minister retires from his foreign service with high honors gained in legitimate diplomacy To a regenerated people he can point as testimonial of honorable success far grander than the triumphs of Bismarck He leaves our shores bearing hence the kindliest regards and the best wishes of the people of this republic

GEORGE F COLE—This gentleman has been appointed postmaster at Portland in place of L H Wakefield Mr Cole is a competent and trustworthy gentleman and all that kind of thing but he has so far as we have heard, always been a Democrat of the most positive kind It is therefore a little strange that he should have been appointed to an office of so much importance and at the same time so lucrative as this especially when there are so many Republicans who are as deserving as Mr Cole can possibly be We do not believe that it is a correct principle to overlook our party friends and give the preference to our political enemies in the distribution and bestowal of official patronage The following of such a line of policy tends to weaken and disorganize a party, and at the same time give "aid and comfort to the enemy" We hope there may be some excuse for this deviation from established party usages in this case, but fear there is not

The above sensible remarks are from the Walla Walla Union All agree down this way that Mr. Cole is competent we have not heard the other adjective used in connection with the matter, though we do not know that it is inapplicable But would not "trusty" have filled the bill a little better?

A most astonishing series of events is reported to have occurred in one of the theaters in Milan, on a Sunday evening, during the performances The clothes of a ballet dancer caught fire, and she was saved with difficulty from death, a modiste fell down stairs and broke her leg, a stage assistant fell dead in an apoplexy, and a musician in the orchestra went raving mad and was carried to a hospital We imagine that the manager also committed suicide, but nothing is said about it

The United States fleet has left Rio Janeiro and gone to Rio Plata on account of the alarming prevalence of the yellow fever at the former port Latest advices say that from fifty to seventy-five cases are reported each day The disease has spread with astonishing rapidity It is making sad ravages in Bahia and Pernambuco, while at Para the epidemic cholera is raging The United States school ship Mercury is lying at St Thomas Two of her crew have died from yellow fever.

The annual "rush" for canes at Yale College took place on the 20th of February last The Faculty had ordained that no Freshman should assume the dignity of the cane before Washington's birthday The unruly "Fresh" could not endure the restraint so on the 20th they seized their walking sticks and went forth to do battle with the "Sophs" As a result some of them got gloriously whipped, the police interfered, and one Fresh went to the calaboose

February 28th, the House Committee on Elections of the Michigan Legislature reported without recommendation, a joint resolution granting the right of suffrage to the women of that State The committee said in their report that the time for deciding so important a matter had not arrived and that the sentiment of the people would not justify them in recommending the adoption of the measure

Baron Liebig prophesies that American beer will ultimately drive German beer from German markets In a speech which he made quite recently, he said "It is characteristic of the Americans that they make better beer than we do With us everything stands still, and the worst brewers are in Bavaria, though formerly the best beer used to come from that quarter"

A Minneapolis (Minn) dispatch says it is estimated that there are from 10 000 000 to 12 000 000 bushels surplus wheat in Minnesota The warehouses and elevators along the lines of railway are crowded and in some instances the farmers have been obliged to haul their wheat back to their farms for want of storage facilities

A Boston dispatch says that Hon R D Rice of Augusta Me, who was elected resident Vice President of the Northern Pacific Railroad at the last annual meeting of the Directors of that company will soon resign the Presidency of the Maine Central road and take up his residence in Oregon or Washington Territory

The Legislature of New York has passed a bill which fixes the rates of firemen in the city of New York as follows Foremen $1,500 assistant foremen, $1 300 fireman 1 200 engineers to steam engines $1 400 and their assistants, $1 200

C C Bemis of San Francisco, lately Inspector of Boilers, has been promoted to be Inspector of Steamships, vice Guthrie, removed The removal and the promotion were made on the recommendation of Mr Sargent

The Hartford Times publishes a tabular statement of the actual sales of sewing machines in 1872 as compiled from the sworn returns of the various companies From this it appears that the total sales reached the enormous figure of 851 736 Of this number the largest manufactories disposed of their machines as follows

	Machines
The Singer Manufacturing Co	219 758
Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Co	174 088
Howe Machine Co (estimated)	145 000
Grover & Baker Sewing Machine Co	52 010
Domestic Sewing Machine Co	49 554
Weed Sewing Machine Co	42 444
Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine Co	33 639
Wilson Sewing Machine Co	22 666
American B H O and Sewing Machine Co	18 930
Gold Medal Sewing Machine Co	18 897
Florence Sewing Machine Co	15 797
B P Howe Sewing Machine Co	14 907
Victor Sewing Machine Co	11 901
Davis Sewing Machine Co	11 376
Blees Sewing Machine Co	6 073
Remington Empire Sewing Machine Co	4 982
J E Braunsdorf & Co	4 [illegible]
Keystone Sewing Machine Co	2 665
Bartlett Reversible Sewing Machine Co	1 000
Bartram & Fenton Manufacturing Co	1,000
Secor Sewing Machine Co	811
Total	851 736

The Times makes the following comments on this showing

Those remarkable facts show how literally, how generally the new sewing machine has become a household necessity By far the greater number of these machines were sold at an enormous profit Owing to a combination on the part of a few of the leading machines, all later inventions have been obliged to agree to sell at a rate not less than $60 otherwise not even the payment of the royalty demanded in every such case could avail to give them the right to use the peculiar patented "feed" movement on which the success of every sewing machine is supposed to depend, and of which three or four have a monopoly Thus a machine of which the total cost, for making is not more than $15 or $18 sells for $60, $70 or $80 according to style and finish The larger part of these sales are to sewing women who have to work for a living and to families of moderate means There should be no good reason why a machine as good as Singer's or Wheeler & Wilson's could not be sold for $30 apiece

The New York papers of the 20th inst say there is high authority for the statement that the Union Pacific Railroad Company has notified the Pacific Mail Company that the contract between them will be cancelled on the first day of May next This action is explained by the dispatch of the 20th instant

"It will be remembered that the Union Pacific granted to the Mail Company, in view of the latter not competing for certain freight, a freight list amounting to a certain value the Pacific Mail Company to provide three steamers per month to sail at intervals of ten days This it is claimed, they failed to do, and by the irregularity of their departures to the Isthmus shippers have lost confidence and will not patronize the steamers under existing arrangements Hence the notice on the part of the Union Pacific Railroad"

A Stockton (Cal) dispatch of the 20th inst says

At 7 o'clock last evening William Heneman a blacksmith, and a resident of this city since 1851 committed suicide by taking a whole box of "Bennett's sure death to rats and mice" He had been drinking heavily for some time past and yesterday between the hours of 7 A M and noon, he drank one gallon of California wine After taking the poison he informed his family who summoned medical aid but there being corrosive sublimate in the mixture which ate his stomach, all efforts to save him were of no avail He died at 11 40 last evening without a struggle Temporary insanity is the only cause assigned for the act

There is room for grave doubt in this case What caused Heneman's death—the gallon of California wine or the "Sure Death"?

The New York Tribune says

It is a popular delusion that the children of the poor are the hardiest and most likely to attain to maturity At a recent meeting in Boston Dr Charles P Putnam, representing the Massachusetts Infant Asylum said "Twenty eight per cent of the children born in Boston die during their first year, and among the poorest classes the percentage is over fifty We are inclined to believe that the rule would hardly hold in regard to other cities In Boston the children of the rich are cared for in an uncommonly sensible and intelligent way

The Philadelphia Press gives the total amount of property exempted from taxation in that city as follows

One hundred and fifty one Public Schools	$3 101 631
Other city property (exclusive of Fairmount Park)	17 552 691
Four hundred and fifty five Churches	14 232 [illegible]

Sixty five Cemeteries	1 810 8[illegible]

THE BOOK OF THE COUNTENANCE.—There is no science in which mankind are more apt to commit grievous mistakes than in the supposed very obvious one of phisiognomy I quarrel not with the principles of this science, as they are laid down by the learned professor much less am I disposed with some people to deny its existence at all together as any index of knowledge that can be depended upon I believe that there is or may be an art to read the mind's construction in the face But then in every species of reading so much depends on the eyes of the reader if they are blear or apt to dazzle or inattentive or strained with too much attention the optic power will infallibly bring home false reports of what it reads How often do we say, upon a cursory glance at a stranger what a fine open countenance he has, who upon second inspection proves to have the exact features of a knave Nay on much more intimate acquaintances how a delusion of this kind shall continue for months, years and then break up all at once Ask the married man who has been so but for a short space of time, if those blue eyes where, during courtship truth sweetness serenity seemed to be written in characters which could not be misunderstood—ask him if the characters which they now convey be exactly the same?—if for truth he does not read a dull virtue (the mimic of constancy) which changes not, only because it wants the judgment to make a preference—if for sweetness he does not read animal tranquility, the dead pool of the heart, which no breeze of passion can stir into health Alas! what is this book of countenance good for which when we have read so long, and thought that we understood its contents here comes a countless list of heart breaking errata at the end!—Charles Lamb

On the 18th inst Paymaster General Alvord telegraphed Major David Taggart, Chief Paymaster of the Department of the Columbia

Has the Lincoln or Telfair returned, and what news concerning the fate of Paymaster J S Walker do they bring? Major Taggart telegraphed the following "All three vessels have been heard from The Telfair found a portion of the wreck, but no signs of the passengers The Lincoln and Petrel found nothing."

CITY.

DISCHARGED.—Joseph Hackney, who was tried and convicted of burglary several years ago, and sentenced to the penitentiary for the period of two years, was discharged last Monday, his term having expired by limitation. He is now in the city. The burglary it will doubtless be remembered was committed in a store at East Portland, and two other persons were also engaged in breaking open the safe—Burch and Cassidy. All three were sentenced by the court to imprisonment at hard labor for the same period. Burch was pardoned out after being confined for a few months, but Hackney and the third accomplice, Cassidy, was left to serve out the full term. At the time, Schultz, the notorious highwayman, effected an escape, Hackney and Burch both got away, but were re-captured after a few weeks. Closely following the re-capture, Burch obtained his pardon through the influence of friends in Portland. Hackney, after being re-captured, made no further attempts to escape. He settled down, became steady and industrious and quite exemplary in his habits. By his general good behavior, he won the esteem and confidence of the keepers. He also gave evidences of reformation. Mr Hackney is a very young man—scarcely past his majority—and it is to be sincerely hoped that he will profit by the unfortunate experiences of the past few years, and resolve in the future to become a useful and honorable citizen. Burch, his colleague in crime, after being pardoned out, came to this city and subsequently removed to California. Last summer he was arrested on a charge of burglary, tried, convicted, and sentenced to the penitentiary at San Quentin for five years. While on the way to that place in the custody of the officer, he jumped off the cars to effect his escape, broke his leg, and was immediately recaptured. He is now in the penitentiary, and will probably remain there until the expiration of his sentence.

ELECTION OF "CITY RIFLES."—In pursuance of a notice, a meeting was held last evening by the members of the new military company, the City Rifles, for the purpose of mustering in members and to elect officers to serve the ensuing year. The following officers were elected. Captain, Alexander Campbell, First Lieut, C C Phillips, Second Lieut, H D Chapman, 1st Sergeant, Julius Jenson, 2d Sergeant, Wm. Zimmerman, 3d Sergeant, J. H Birmingham, 4th Sergeant W. A. Hart; 5th Sergeant and Color Bearer, Chas H. Dexter, Secretary, C H Dexter, Treasurer, F. B. Harrington. This new company, we learn, is commencing under the most flattering auspices. The company now number, rank and file, 48 men. Arrangements will soon be made for procuring a new uniform and a suitable armory in which to hold meetings and drills. The company will meet in the grand jury room on next Wednesday evening at 7 30 o'clock.

Wells Fargo & Co's messenger and 25 in the steerage.

BASE BALL MEETING.—Pursuant to a call made on Tuesday, a number of young men meet at the gallery of Jos. Buchtel last evening. The object of the meeting was to take some action towards reviving this national athletic game of base ball in Portland. The meeting was organized by the election of Jos. Buchtel, Chairman pro tem, and Jos. R. Wiley, temporary Secretary. A committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Witherel, Tilston and Lidderman, was appointed to draft constitution and by-laws, to report at next meeting. After a number of those present had expressed their views upon base ball, the meeting adjourned to meet at same place next Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.—The Baptist Churches and Sunday Schools of Oregon and Washington Territory will hold a Sunday School Convention next week at the Baptist Church in this city. The meetings will commence Tuesday April 1st, at 7 P M, and will continue through the two following days and evenings. Half an hour of the first session will be devoted to a prayer meeting after which Rev J. Freeman, D. D., of San Francisco will preach the opening sermon. Christians of all denominations and all interested in Sunday Schools will find cordial welcome in the meetings of this convention.

VESSELS ON THE WAY—DUE.—The bark Melancthon is now on the berth at San Francisco, loading for this port.

The bark Rival sailed some days ago from San Francisco for the mouth of the Columbia. It is likely that the bark will not come to this port at all. She is due at Astoria.

The schooner Ocean Pearl of the Star Line will sail for this port in a few days.

The schooners Letitia and J L Foster also of the Star Line, are on the way hither, and will be expected in a few days.

ODD FELLOWS' ASSOCIATION.—The annual meeting of the Odd Fellows' Hall Association of East Portland, was held last Tuesday evening. The following Directors were elected for the ensuing year: P. Kelly, B F. Ausmus, H. S. Williams, John W. Cayton, and John Kenworthy. John W. Clayton was subsequently chosen Vice President, and B F. Ausmus, Treasurer. A meeting of the Directors was held last evening for the purpose of electing a President and Secretary.

NEW ENGINES.—The Common Council last evening authorized by ordinance the Committee on Fire and Water to purchase three second class steam fire engines for the use of the Department. These engines will be distributed to Multnomah No. 2, Columbian No. 3 and Willamette No. 1. It is probable that the present engine of No 2 will be given to Tiger No. 5, and the hand engines belonging to Nos. 1 and 3 will be sold.

REQUIEM MASS.—A requiem mass for the repose of the soul of Joseph C Holladay, who it will be remembered departed life at Hongkong on the 13th of March 1872, was celebrated on Thursday the 13th inst,—one year from the date of his death—in St Stephens' Roman Catholic Church on Twenty eighth street, New York.

DECIDED.—After two days duration, the case of Joseph Bachman, assignee of the estate of A H Jordan & Co., vs the Wallamet Falls Canal and Lock Company, in the U S Circuit Court, was submitted to the jury. The jury, after a short deliberation, returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

ADMINISTRATOR APPOINTED.—The following order was made in vacation yesterday by Judge E Hamilton: In the matter of the estate of John Sutton, deceased, Wm. Wadhams was appointed administrator, on petition of the widow; ordered that the administrator file his bonds in the sum of $18,000.

ARRIVED.—The steamer Gov Grover arrived from her second trip up the river last evening about 5 o'clock. She brought down a number of passengers, and a large load of freight. The steamer will leave for the Upper Wallamet this morning, with freight and passengers.

CHANGE OF MEETING.—Formerly the time of meeting of the Knights of Pythias was on Monday evening. Hereafter the time is changed to every Wednesday evening. This Order is said to be in a flourishing condition and constantly increasing its membership.

LOADED.—The bark Free Trade is still at the mouth of the river. Fifteen cords of bolts will complete her cargo, when the vessel will go down the river. At St. Helens, or some other point, a deck load of lumber will be received when the bark will be ready for sea.

THROUGH TO LEWISTON.—From the present stage of water on the Upper Columbia, it is quite likely that navigation through to Lewiston will be resumed on Monday next by the O S N Co's boats. However, this will depend on circumstances.

FOR THE TERM.—In the U S Circuit Court yesterday, all the jurors were excused for the term. The Court will convene again on Monday next at the usual hour.

FINED—DISCHARGED.—The case of Kyle and Marcks, the livery stable keeper and express driver, who engaged in a personal rencounter on the streets Tuesday morning, came up yesterday in the Police Court for trial. Marcks, the express driver, who, it appears, got the worst end of the fight, as his features bore ample evidence, was discharged. Kyle was arraigned on two charges—one for disorderly conduct and assault and battery. On the former charge he was discharged, and on the latter he paid a fine of $10 and costs, amounting in all to $13 50.

A NEW ANEMOMETER.—Mr Evans, of the United States Signal Service Corps, has applied to the headquarters at Washington for permission to place an anemometer on the Central School, and to have it connected with his office by telegraph, and this will enable him to note the velocity and course of the wind every few minutes. Instructions are expected in a few days.

SAILED.—A dispatch was received in this city by Mr Moffett, which stated that the brig Pathfinder had sailed from San Buenaventura to San Francisco with a cargo of grain. The date of the sailing of the vessel is not announced, but she is doubtless far on the way to her present destination.

RECOVERING.—Mr John Gates, Chief Engineer for the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, who has been confined to his room for several weeks past with a painful illness, is, we are gratified to state, convalescing. He will shortly be able to appear on the streets.

Schurz and Conkling

A WORD ABOUT $200 CAMPAIGN SPEECHES

In the Senate, on the 21st inst, after the transaction of some unimportant business, the Caldwell case was taken up, and Mr. Hamilton of Maryland argued against the power of the Senate to vacate Caldwell's seat.

Mr Schurz then resumed his argument in favor of Caldwell being permitted to retain his seat. Mr. Schurz condemned as grossly pernicious and indefensible the payment by Caldwell of $15,000 to Carney to withdraw in his favor, but the transaction did not afford proof of the bribery of members of the Legislature to effect his election. He expressed the belief that this discussion which had taken place would serve to concentrate a burning focus of public attention on the palpable agencies which are set at work to influence elections, and the result will be that Congress and the Legislatures of States will enact such laws as will punish bribery and improper influence in elections. He hoped that the decision in this case would show that the American Senate was calm enough, truthful enough and firm enough to maintain the spirit, genious and safeguards of the Constitution as our fathers gave them to us.

WAR'S WRINKLED FRONT

Mr Schurz alluded to a statement made by Mr Conkling to the effect that he had received $200 apiece for speeches delivered during the last campaign. He thought it strange that after the debate had been conducted so long in this non personal manner that these personal allusions should be lugged in. He pronounced this allegation as an unmitigated falsification. He not only did not ask any pay for his services during the last campaign, but when the Liberal Republican Committee had remitted a sum to him to defray his expenses, he declined it and returned the same. During the whole campaign he never received a cent.

Mr Conkling—Does the Senator mean the last or the previous campaign?

Mr. Schurz said he had pronounced the charges of the New York Times a year ago as a base and unmitigated falsehood, and again expressed surprise that after the friendly and courteous manner in which this debate had been carried on that personal allusions should be be made.

THE NEW YORK GENTLEMAN HAS NO APOLOGY TO MAKE

Mr Conkling said that the truth or falsity of the matter was no concern of his. He had no apology to make to the Senator. If the Senator had denied the charges of the New York Times, he had not heard of it.

Mr Schurz said that he had never denied that in former campaigns he had received compensation to reimburse him for his expenses. He had stated in January, 1872, in answer to the allegations of the Times that during a fifteen years' campaign service in building up the Republican party he was compelled, by his necessities, to accept compensation for his services, that he might be able to do the work. The Senator had, of course, the right to argue to the pending question in his own way, but when he violates the amenities which should always obtain among Senators to bring in slanders against other Senators, was that proper? What would the Senator from New York think, he would ask, if he (Schurz) should come in here and repeat a rumor, that was wide spread, that a Senator had received a fee of $1,000 from a railway company to look after its interests, and if the allusion was made in such a way as to indicate the Senator from New York, would he not consider it pertinent to raise the question of decorum and propriety?

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

Mr Conkling—I would authorize the Senator to say to the man who made such a statement that he was a liar, and I would further authorize the Senator to inform the man that I was personally responsible for what I said.

Mr. Schurz (adopting the language of the Senator from New York)—Then I authorize him to say to the man from whom he obtained his information that he is a liar and that I am personally responsible for what I say.

Mr Conkling—Does the Senator authorize me to say that in past campaigns he never received specified sums for his services?

Mr Schurz—I authorize the Senator to say that the man lies who charges me with receiving $200 for every speech I delivered during the last campaign.

Mr Conkling rose again, but Mr Schurz declined to give way. He then read from the Globe from his personal explanation, made in January, 1872, in reference to compensation being made to him in earlier Republican campaigns, to the effect that he had been compelled to receive money to pay expenses, being without the means of his own, but that the whole amount received was not equal to that which would accrue to a popular lecturer on a three weeks' tour.

A PREMATURE APOLOGY.

Conkling then said that in the remarks which had called out all this he had meant no personal allusion to Schurz. What he had said was in the line of his argument and was perfectly just and fair, but the Senator had chosen to construe what had been said as a reflection on him, for which he, Conkling, was not responsible, and notwithstanding the grossly improper remarks which the Senator had made during one stage of the proceedings, he, Conkling, would now say that he had no personal feeling against the Senator.

Mr. Shurz was glad to hear this, but the remark to which he had taken exception was made with such particularity that it was difficult to mistake its meaning. He (Mr Schrz) deprecated personal controversy, but he did not shrink from the consequences if they were forced upon him.

MR. CONKLING'S LAST WORD.

Mr Conkling said that it was plainly evident that the Senator from Missouri meant to have the last word. He (Conkling), would now say that he wished what he had said to stand, and if he had anticipated what the Senator from Missouri had just said he should not have made the qualification that he did not agree with that Senator when he asserted that he had done nothing to cause unfriendly feelings. He (Conkling), knew as well as any one how a man could throw out insinuations and then shrink from them. He well remembered how at the last session he and others were covered all over with insinuations, accusations, etc., false in conception and false in fact, which the Senator had no right to repeat. Therefore, that Senator must pardon him if he dissented from his statement that he had so conducted himself on the floor as to provoke the resentment of no one. The Senator could not have the last word, for, no matter what he might say, he (Conkling) should not reply any further.

MR SHURZ'S LAST WORD.

Mr Schurz said the Senator himself wanted the last word. He had no cause to retract anything he had said. He would merely repeat his opinion that after the long time which had elapsed and the bitter campaign which had been passed through, that he should have been protected from personal imputations.

Mr Cameron then obtained the floor, but without proceeding he gave way, when the Senate went in Executive session and adjourned.

The notorious Count Joannes sued the New York Times for damages arising from a slander published in that journal several months ago. The jury has returned a sealed verdict, awarding the sensitive Count $750, wherewith to soothe his perturbed spirit.

The Laws of Health.

It is useless for State Legislatures to pass laws for the preservation of the public health if the great law of self preservation, which depends for its enforcement upon the will of the individual, is suffered to remain a dead letter. There is scarcely an adult member of the community of either sex, in this country, who has not seen the testimony in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, furnished over their own signatures by persons of acknowledged eminence in science, literature, art, commerce, and every department of business and professional life. These witnesses have declared in the most specific terms that the preparation is a safeguard against epidemics, a sovereign remedy for dyspepsia, a valuable anti bilious medicine a promoter of appetite, a gentle and harmless stimulant a good acclimating medicine, strengthener of the nerves, a general invigorant, a protection against the deleterious effects of malaria and impure water, and that it imparts a degree of vigor and activity to the vital forces which is not communicated by any other of the tonics and stomachics in use. Under these circumstances the self-preservative law of nature should teach every rational person who either by reason of inherent debility or in consequence of exposure to unwholesome influences, is in peril of losing the greatest of all temporal blessings, health, the importance of using the Bitters as a defensive medicine. Dyspeptics who neglect to give it a trial are simply their own enemies. It is guaranteed to cure indigestion in all its forms, and the bilious and nervous will find nothing in the whole range of official and proprietary medicines which will afford them the same relief.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

About Brigham

BRIGHAM AND HIS WIVES

It has generally been supposed that Brigham had an immense number of wives and that everything around him and them was in the gorgeous Oriental style but this is purely imaginative. There are probably only nineteen sisters who call him husband, and with the exception of Amelia and Mary—the rival favorites—they are all working women, without any pretensions to being mere ornaments. Brigham is not capable of appreciating much of that sort of thing. His early poverty and hard working experience, sustained by a natural acquisitive disposition have enabled him to eschew all extravagance. Speaking of his wives he said: He would provide them comfortable house, clothe them properly and give them what they wanted to eat, but Brigham Young was master of his own actions. His wives have no idea from their own experience of the marital relations of husband and wife in the Christian sense. He sees them in the Lion house at the general dinner table or at evening prayer in the parlor, where they are all collected at the ringing of the bell, but many of them he seldom sees elsewhere. He calls periodically upon a few of them and inquires after their welfare, but there are others he rarely ever sees within their own particular habitations, unless in the case of sickness or when sent for. There is no romance about the lives of his wives, they are quiet, unobtrusive women, who have been sacrificed to their faith. There has been but a single instance of scandal associated with the name of one wife, many years ago, and that was evidently without foundation. When the penalty of certain death stares the transgressor in the face, few have the hardihood to brave it.

His attentions to his wives before the public are methodical and calculated. His first wife and Amelia will usually sit beside him on the sofa in the ball room, and other wives may find places else where. When he goes to the floor for the first cotillion, it is generally with Amelia, and the half dozen others who may be present have the honor of dancing with the Prophet during the course of the evening. He is a lively dancer for a man of his years, evidently takes great pleasure in always being correct, and enjoys at times a thorough "break-down" step at the close.

BRIGHAM'S WEALTH

The actual wealth of the prophet will never be known. There is probably not a county in Utah where he has not some valuable property. Wherever new settlements have been laid out, he has not been the last to "plant" his name upon the records. With his "opportunities," a man of his characteristics could not fail to become a great landed proprietor. Heber used to preach that Brigham and he would one day "own the people," and had the tabernacle predictions about "famines, and wars, and rumors of wars," received the terrible fulfillment that they expected, there was quite a possibility of Heber's words coming true. Brigham took up great tracts of land, and the Legislature gave him grants of all he coveted. With these constantly accumulating in value, and a tithing office at the prophet's command in a time of great scarcity, when the Gentiles were to come to Zion begging for bread, it is not difficult to imagine the facilities which Brigham would have had for realizing Heber's boast.

That Brigham Young has money "salted away," that he will not touch under the pressure of any necessity but that for which it was "salted," is most assuredly believed by some who have had excellent opportunities of knowing his business. A man of his shrewdness, with so many threatenings of forced removal from Utah, and the possible contingencies of the application of law, never would permit himself to be caught penniless. Brigham has money—plenty of it.

Of his income from his numerous and vast estates, his theater, the co-operative business, his railroad bonds, mills, farms, rents in the city, and from all sources, the Internal Revenue office at Washington has on record the following statement: For 1867, $18,400, for 1868, 20,000, 1869, $28,581, 1870, 25,000, 1871, $111,780, 1872, $39,492. Of course, no one believes that these are anything like the correct figures.—Stenhouse's Rocky Mountain Saints.

A Man Attempting to Eat his own Mother

Says a correspondent of the New York World, a horrible scene of cannibalism was enacted in Tralee, Ireland, February 13th. The principal actor in it was a pig jobber who had long been completely absorbed in the gratification of animal desires and passions. Relationship and consanguinity mattered not, to his mind mankind must have appeared a "swinish multitude," and whether made bacon of or not, with a total disregard for particularity in this respect, it mattered not whether the article was cooked or otherwise. Well, this two footed brute came home drunk to his poor old mother, who has passed the allotted "threescore years and ten," and the old creature remonstrated with him. A row ensued, in which the mother was knocked down on the floor, and by sheer force one of her legs was broken in two places. This not satisfying him, he commenced to eat the flesh off her arm. A watchman named Mara, who was passing at the time, was attracted by the woman's screams to the house, and on Mara forcing open the door he saw him actually eating the flesh, as if he had a taste for it. The watchman not being able to rescue the poor creature from his savage gluttony, he sent off for another watchman, and on their returning to the house he was at the same inhuman feast and his face and breast were all smeared with blood. Word was sent to the police, and the night patrol on coming to the house secured him. The coolness of the ruffian was extraordinary, for he had the audacity to prefer a charge of assault against Mara for attempting to make him desist when he first entered, and saw the horrible repast he was indulging in. The poor woman was conveyed to the county infirmary and placed under the care of Dr Lawlor, where, on examination, her body was found to be frightfully lacerated, the bone of one arm up to the elbow was quite bare of flesh, and the sinews of the other were quite exposed. It is thought she can hardly survive the treatment of her cruel son. Her depositions were of course taken, and the prisoner, who had been in the Bridewell, was transferred to the county jail for trial at the Assizes.

Josephine Mansfield in Europe

On the 2d of February the gorgeous gaming saloons at Monaco were filled with a most fashionable and elegant crowd of ladies and gentlemen. So dense was the throng round the tables that few of those who were standing were able to participate in the game. A lady, who was seated at the lower end of the roulette table, by the side of the so called end croupier, attracted the attention of the bystanders by the large piles of gold pieces which she staked on three or four numbers, and by the invariable luck which crowned her ventures. She was a fat, beautiful woman, and she played with a nonchalance and recklessness as if the secret of Midas had been hers. She won, and won and won. Nothing but a slight flush upon her finely rounded, dimpled and delicately complexioned cheeks indicated that in the last forty minutes she had won between three and four thousand dollars. Beside her stood a tall, foreign looking gentleman evidently over forty years of age, with a heavy auburn moustache, and a pale face. The beautiful woman was just about drawing to herself the two or three hundred dollars which she had won again, when a young man who had been sitting by her side politely but firmly said to her: "Pardon me, madame, that belongs to me!" The lady turned indignantly toward him and asked him what he meant. "Simply that those winnings are mine," he replied coldly. The next moment the lady appealed to the head croupier, calling upon him to say whether she had not steadily and exclusively played for the past hour the numbers in question. The young man sprang to his feet in the utmost agitation. The Lady started back in terror as he bent his flashing eyes upon her, when the middle-aged man behind her suddenly seized the impetuous young stranger by the collar of his coat, and, uttering a savage oath in a foreign language, struck him a violent blow in the face. The assailed party drew a dirk knife and turned savagely upon his assailant. In a second all was uproar in the gorgeous gambling hall. The gamblers and the croupiers jumped up—the game was interrupted—angry voices, uttering oaths, resounded, and suddenly two police officers elbowed themselves through the crowd to the quarreling group. The two men were arrested, the lady raked in what she had won, and left the hall with a scowl upon her pretty face.

Next morning the two gentlemen had to appear before the police court of Monaco, where the elder, the assailant, gave his name as Baron Berry de Tolly, and the younger as Herr Von Differer. The Baron was ordered to pay a nominal fine and he whom he had slapped in the face was honorably discharged. The lady was Josie Mansfield, whose intimate Baron de Tolly is now. She had been with him at Monaco for three or four weeks when the untoward incident occurred. On the following day the two left for Nice.

Life in Nebraska

A citizen of Nebraska thus posts up an Eastern correspondent who sp[illegible] a variety of questions as it relates to the territory and life there:

What kind of a country do you live in?

Mixed and extensive. It is made up of land and water.

What kind of weather?

Long spells of weather are frequent. Our sunshine comes off principally during the daytime.

Have you plenty of water and how got?

A good deal of water scattered here and there, and generally got in pails of whisky.

Is it hard?

Rather so when you have to go half a mile and wade in mud knee deep to get it.

What kind of buildings?

Allegoric, Doric, Anti-Doloric, log and slabs. The buildings are chiefly out of doors and so low between the joints that the chimneys all stick out through the roof.

What kind of society?

Good, bad, hateful, indifferent and mixed.

What do your people do for a living mostly?

Some work, some laze around and some drink whisky.

Is it cheap living there?

Only five cents a glass and water thrown in.

Any taste for music?

Strong. Buzz and buck saws in the day time and wolf howling and cat fighting at night.

A BUD OF PROMISE.—A boy of tender years and heart has drowned seventeen kittens, tied tin pans to the tails of all the neighbors dogs, ornamented his chamber by pinning flies to the wall, cut brickbats with his uncle's razor, blown up a pet Canary with a fire cracker, pulled the tail feathers out of two roosters, been thrown into the top of an apple tree by a cow that he was teasing, brushed his father's hat against the grain, told his sister's lover about her false teeth, and still his fond mother intends him for the pulpit.

The first faint symptoms of a republic have appeared in the north of Europe. Sweden has almost refused to vote the King the money necessary for a magnificent coronation fete, and one of the deputies Holno by name, indulged in an address pertinent to the occasion which might have emanated from an English agitator. He objected to the proposed pageant on the ground that it was not worth while for Sweden to make itself ridiculous. A republican feeling is also said to be growing in Norway and Denmark.

The Danube has been open for navigation all winter. There has been no close of navigation at Odessa. The stocks of wheat at Ibrail and Galatz are small and the interior supply of wheat is small with a limited export expected in the spring. The harvests of maize in Wallachia and Moldavia were abundant, but the prices asked prevent export, except to a very limited extent.

"The stocks of wheat in Hungary are small with no prospect of immediate supplies. The weather is more spring like than wintry. The appearance of the growing wheat plant is favorable.

At Rostock, Germany, stocks and supplies of grain are light. The weather seasonable. Rye in brisk demand for rail shipment to Saxony, Thuringia, Westphalia and Hamburg. Receipts of rye at Rostock diminishing.

"The imports into the United Kingdom of flour and wheat equal in wheat, for the year ended December 31, 1872, were 47,485 302 cwts against 44 488 443 cwts, in 1871 and 37,046 869 cwts in 1870.

"The farmers deliveries of wheat in the 150 towns were for the year ended December 31 1872 2 503 000 qrs estimated in the Kingdom 10 372 000 qrs, against 2 274 581 qrs in the 150 towns and 10 090 524 qrs in the Kingdom in 1871 and in 1870 3 398 655 qrs in the 150 towns and 13 591 020 qrs in the Kingdom.

The New York gold quotations reaching us to day are the highest for over three years. There are no better solutions of the problem as to the cause of this rise than that the demand for gold to pay custom duties on imports has been for the past three months and still continues to be largely in excess of the same demand in any former years. At New York alone the imports in January, February and the first half of March this year exceeded those of last by something over $7 000 000.

Our local finances for this month have grown but little better and if any changed accommodations are effected with rather more difficulty than at the commencement of the month. This feeling of scarcity however we believe is more strictly confined to our city than to the State at large and is owing to the fact that a considerable amount of funds have recently been sent away by our business men in the purchase of new stocks of merchandise for the spring and summer trade.

Home Produce Market

According to our telegraphic advices from San Francisco the produce market of that city is undergoing a state of dullness proportionally as great as our own and therefore the demand for such commodities of Oregon production as we have been accustomed to ship thither is far from active. At the same time we have had no ship communication with the ports on the Sound with which our merchants have heretofore done a considerable trade leaving us but little demand except for the local trade. There is no demand for Wheat for export worthy of note owing to the want of vessels, none being here now to load with that staple. We hear of no transactions of importance so far this week, and though millers still say they are offering $1 60 per cental, exporting rates are hardly so high. These rates however under the reduced inland freights leave a better margin for the producer than he enjoyed when the grain commanded $1 70 per cental a few weeks ago.

In the general line of produce we note no important change in quotations from those last given. The receipts to day both by rail and steamers have been quite up to or above the average of the past week and with the limited demand for mountain trade is dull.

DR. C G GLASS

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are dragging out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the faces, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By including Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets, for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients letters, etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR J F GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultation FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.

ADVERTISING

Has created many a new business,
Has enlarged many an old business,
Has revived many a dull business,
Has rescued many a lost business,
Has saved many a failing business,
Has preserved many a large business,
And insures success in any business.

GIRARD'S SECRET.—Stephen Girard used to say in his old age: "I have always considered advertising liberally and long to be the great medium of success in business, and the prelude to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule to advertise in dull times as well as busiest, long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out, as by continually keeping my business before the public it has secured many a sale I otherwise would have lost."
